Dr. Pulia Receives URS Exceptional Mentorship Award

Congrats to Dr. Michael Pulia who has received an Exceptional Mentorship Award from the UW Undergraduate Research Scholars Program for the 2019-2020 academic year! Dr. Pulia has been acknowledged for his constant encouragement and support, and his students praise him for being highly dedicated to promoting research and creative work. We are proud to have Dr. Pulia as a mentor, researcher, and colleague. Thanks for all you do, Mike!

Dr. Pulia Joins DRS COVID-19 Task Force

In response to COVID-19, the Dysphagia Research Society (DRS) has created a COVID-19 task force to address the additional public health concerns facing patients with dysphagia and increased clinical needs caused by this global pandemic. This multidisciplinary, international task force has invited Dr. Michael Pulia to serve as a member and contribute his expertise regarding infectious diseases. As a member, Dr. Pulia will disseminate credible research and educational resources related to dysphagia management during the COVID-19 pandemic and provide ongoing support to all members (clinicians, researchers, and educators). Way to go, Mike!
NEW* Clin-STAR Coordinating Center Website

Clin-STAR CC, the Clinician-Scientists Transdisciplinary Aging Research Coordinating Center, is a new national initiative that was established to organize activities and provide resources for the connection of clinician-scientists in aging research from disparate specialties across the US. Some opportunities include pilot funding, visiting professorships, clinician-scientist database, webinars, and career development! Clin-STAR CC will also have a newsletter that highlights the latest funding opportunities, networking events, and more.

-Studies Currently Enrolling in the ED-

All study enrollment has been paused until further notice due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. We have paused enrollment for the safety of our staff and providers, as well as for our patients and the community. Please know that we are looking forward to restarting enrollment once this pandemic has passed, and that we greatly appreciate being surrounded by such an innovative and caring community.
